An examination of the graduate program is to be made by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the National Association for Colleges of Teachers Education. The program also provides organized graduate assistance to departments during the academic year, that is, graduates assisting in their major department in routine, clerical and examination activities. These graduates may also carry some graduate and/or undergraduate work and have access to additional graduate work on Saturdays of the academic year. Classroom Teachers Urged to Instruct For Future Needs

Mr. Paul Green, Director of Teacher Education and Certification of the Missouri Department of Education, spoke to the Classroom Teachers, faculty and students of the college in an assembly at 9:50, Thursday, June 12.

Mr. Green pointed to the problem of qualified teachers for the children of the future. Mr. Green stated, that all too often teachers are not prepared to instruct their students in the fields they themselves profess to have mastered. He also brought to the surface one of these facts that is so often overlooked; that is, that teaching is a profession and not merely a stop over between brighter outlooks for the future. Mr. Green stated, "teaching is a profession and like any profession must be undertaken by dedicated persons interested in the present and future welfare of our country."

Is your teaching sound? Is your teaching worthwhile? Does your teaching bring out the spiritual values and the qualities of a good citizen. These were the remarks with which Mr. Green brought his

The building program is steadily progressing even though rains and bad weather have prevailed. Lon Wilson, Dean of Men, stated that the new women's dormitory and the new men's dormitory are to be completed by the end of August and ready for the September school opening. The new class room building will possibly be completed during the second semester of next year and the new health and physical education building should be nearly finished by Spring.

The articles covered by the black plastic tarpaulin in front of the new women's dormitory are not blocks, but furniture. Beds, desks, closets, and chests are the articles that the black plastic tarpaulin protects. Each article of furniture is to be permanently attached to the walls of the women's dormitory. The new dormitory will house 206 Freshman girls. Three parlors, one on each floor, a guest room and restroom for men in the lounge are a few added features which are absent from the present dormitory

An elevator is also being installed in the new wing which will give service to both the new and older sections of the building.

The men's dormitory will house 137 boys. The furniture in this dormitory is similar to the furniture of the new girl's dormitory. Parlor furniture has been ordered for both buildings by Mr. Luther Belcher. Enrollment

Summer enrollment this year has set a new record with 830 students now in classes. Of this number there are 735 undergraduates and 95 in graduate work.

The increase over the 1957 enrollment, which was 822, is credited to the larger number of graduate students. There were only 72 in the graduate departments last summer.

Dinner Is Served?

It has been brought to notice lately that many students are lunching in the classrooms of the Administration Building. This is a practice that should be curtailed. We of this campus are fortunate in having a more than adequate Student Union for this purpose, and we should take advantage of its presence.

There are many facilities in the Union that many students have perhaps not noted; on the lower level there is an excellent dinning area, on the second floor there is an attractive lounge that the students can enjoy after they have lunched with such facilities as television, magazines and Hi-Fi.

Let us hope that in the future more students will take advantage of these facilities which are offered for their benefit and refrain from dining in the Administration Building which is not fitted to accomodate such activities.

Cornel Wilde, Michael Wilding and Ann Francis star in The Scarlet Coat" to be shown tenight in the J. W. Jones Student Union of the patio deck.

The story of one of the most famous treacheries in American history is unfolded in this film about Benedict Arnold and Major Andre. A fascinating crosssection of espionage between the spy organization of the American and British forces and the dangerous assignments of part of Major John Balton, led to the unmasking of Benedict Arnold as a traiter who almost succeeded in turning West Point over to the enemy.
